Importance of recognition

Reasons why employee recognition matters

- Recognized employees are happy employees.
- Happy employees are productive employees.
- When happy employees feel recognized and important/valued, they tend to remain with their organization.

Importance of recognition

Recognized employees are happy employees.

- Employees not only want good pay and benefits; they also want to be treated fairly, to make a substantial contribution to the organization through their work, and to be valued and appreciated for their efforts.
- From Forbes: Not everyone takes their work home with them. However, must do take their emotions from work home.

Importance of recognition

Employees who feel recognized/important tend to remain.

- From U.S. Bureau of Labor and Statistics: Most people who leave their job do so because they perceive a lack of respect or want more autonomy over their work.
- While a new employee may have a more affordable salary, you lose the historical knowledge, work-related efficiencies and investment in training made on employees who leave.

Recognizing service

Each new employee receives a Team Chesterfield service pin to wear to display their affiliation with the school division. Service pins are then awarded at key anniversary milestones and are given during special staff meetings.

- Costs associated with service pin recognition: $3,296

Schools and affiliated PTAs/PTOs celebrate staff appreciation days/weeks throughout the year.

Recognizing service

The annual Retirement Reception recognizes retiring employees. Last year's event recognized 244 of approximately 350 employees leaving the division. Those staff members had a combined 5,467 years of service to Chesterfield County Public Schools.

- Costs for 2018 Retirement Reception: $9,310
 - Hors d'oeuvres provided by Career and Technical Center students (authentic learning opportunity), recognition item, set up, printing

Recognizing excellence

The annual Teachers of the Year Gala celebrates the 63 educators selected as their school's best teacher. This is done in accordance with the state teacher of the year recognition program.

- Costs for 2018 Teacher of the Year Gala: $12,655
 - Dinner, rentals, set up, awards, printing
- Support for 2018 Teacher of the Year Gala
 - Chesterfield Education Foundation, $2,500
 - Chesterfield Federal Credit Union, $1,500
 - Prop Shop, $280

Recognizing excellence

The school division's top administrator is recognized through the R.E.B. Awards for Distinguished Educational Leadership. The school division would like to model the teacher of the year selection process in the future -- one from each level

- Costs for 2018 Principal of the Year: $0
- Support for 2018 Principal of the Year: $15,000
 - Winner gets $7,500
